8. Alpaca Securities Business Continuity Plan Summary

Alpaca Securities LLC (“Alpaca Securities”), a wholly-owned subsidiary of AlpacaDB, Inc. (collectively “Alpaca” or “the Firm”) has created and implemented a Business Continuity Plan (“BCP”) in an effort to mitigate the effects related to unforeseen business interruptions. The BCP is designed to enable the Firm to continue or resume trading operations as soon as possible in the event of an emergency or significant business disruption (“SBD”).

Alpaca is currently able to communicate with its customers using telephone, email, and US Mail. In the event of an SBD, Alpaca will assess which means of communication are still available and use the means closest in speed to the means used in the past. 9. Margin Disclosure Statement

When you purchase securities, you may pay for the securities in full or you may borrow part of the purchase price from your brokerage firm. If you choose to borrow funds from your firm, you will open a margin account with the firm. The securities purchased are the firm's collateral for the loan to you. If the securities in your account decline in value, so does the value of the collateral supporting your loan, and as a result, the firm can take action, such as issue a margin call and/or sell securities in your account, in order to maintain the required equity in the account.

It is important that you fully understand the risks involved in trading securities on margin. These risks include the following:

- You can lose more funds than you deposit in the margin account.
- The firm can force the sale of securities in your account.
- The firm can sell your securities without contacting you.
- You are not entitled to choose which security in your margin account is liquidated or sold to meet a margin call. Because the securities are collateral for the margin loan, the firm has the right to decide which security to sell in order to protect its interests.
- The firm can increase its house maintenance margin requirement at any time and is not required to provide you with advance written notice.
- You are not entitled to an extension of time on a margin call.

10. OTC Securities

You understand that from time to time, and at Alpaca's sole discretion, Alpaca may allow the trading of certain OTC Securities. You understand that under certain circumstances, a listed stock may be delisted and become an OTC Security. If you hold securities in your account that become OTC Securities, you understand that Alpaca may, at its sole discretion, liquidate the OTC Securities and place the proceeds, if any, in your account without prior notification to you.

Securities that trade over-the-counter, including bulletin board, pink sheet, and other thinly-traded securities (each, an "OTC Security" and collectively "OTC Securities") present particular trading risks, in part because they are relatively less liquid and more volatile than actively traded securities listed on a major exchange. You understand that OTC Securities may be subject to different trading rules and systems than other securities and that you may encounter significant delays in executions, reports of executions and updating of quotations in trading OTC Securities. Alpaca, in its sole discretion, may require limit orders on certain OTC Securities transactions.

11. Extended Hours Trading Risks

There are certain risks associated with extended hours trading. You should consider the following points before engaging in extended hours trading.

Risk of Lower Liquidity. Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and sell securities. Generally, the more orders that are available in a market, the greater the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity it is easier for investors to buy or sell securities, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities purchased or sold. There may be lower liquidity in extended hours trading as compared to regular trading hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all.

Risk of Higher Volatility. Volatility refers to the changes in price that securities undergo when trading. Generally, the higher the volatility of a security, the greater its price swings. There may be greater volatility in extended hours trading than in regular trading hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all, or you may receive an inferior price when engaging in extended hours trading than you would during regular trading hours.

Risk of Changing Prices. The prices of securities traded in extended hours trading may not reflect the prices either at the end of regular trading hours, or upon the opening the next morning. As a result, you may receive an inferior price when engaging in extended hours trading than you would during regular trading hours.

Risk of Unlinked Markets. Depending on the extended hours trading system or the time of day, the prices displayed on a particular extended hours trading system may not reflect the prices in other concurrently operating extended hours trading systems dealing in the same securities. Accordingly, you may receive an inferior price in one extended hours trading system than you would in another extended hours trading system.

Risk of News Announcements. Normally, issuers make news announcements that may affect the price of their securities after regular trading hours. Similarly, important financial information is frequently announced outside of regular trading hours. In extended hours trading, these announcements may occur during trading, and if combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may cause an exaggerated and unsustainable effect on the price of a security.

Risk of Wider Spreads. The spread refers to the difference in price between what you can buy a security for and what you can sell it for. Lower liquidity and higher volatility in extended hours trading may result in wider than normal spreads for a particular security. Alpaca may route extended hours eligible orders as not held orders. A not held order is an order where you give discretion for your order to be worked on a not held basis. Our extended hours not held orders will be sent to the market with your instructions to buy or sell at your limit price or better. It is important to note that if we route your order as a not held order the order is not a “covered order” under Reg NMS and is not subject to limit order display or trade through protections as outlined in Reg NMS during the life of the order.

12. ACH Transfers

You authorize Alpaca, at its discretion and without further prior notice, to utilize an electronic check process or Automated Clearing House (“ACH”) facility to draft funds in the amount of any of Your checks payable to Alpaca, its agents or assigns.

Money deposited via ACH is normally not available for withdrawal for 5 to 10 business days.

Within 63 days of the date of Your ACH deposit, your funds may only be withdrawn to the bank account from which such funds were deposited.

You understand that for the ACH transfers to be established, at least one common name must match exactly between Your Alpaca and bank accounts.

To send and receive ACHs, Your bank must be a member of the ACH system. For ACH transactions, You hereby grant Alpaca Securities LLC (“Alpaca Securities”) limited power of attorney for purposes of redeeming any shares in Your Account if the payment exceeds available free credits and direct Alpaca to accept any orders to make payments to an authorized bank account and to fulfill these orders through the redemption of shares in Your Account if the payment exceeds available free credits.

In addition, if You or any joint account owner decides to rescind an ACH transfer, You hereby direct and grant Alpaca Securities power of attorney to redeem any shares necessary to fulfill and make such rescission regardless if I incur any loss.

13. Payment for Order Flow

Alpaca Securities LLC ("Alpaca Securities") receives remuneration for directing orders in securities to particular market centers for execution. The customer understands that this remuneration, known as "payment for order flow," is considered compensation to Alpaca and the source and amount of any compensation received by Alpaca in connection with a particular transaction will be disclosed on the customer's written request.

Under SEC Rule 606(b)(1), customers can request specific order routing and execution information for the preceding six months. The information will include the identity of the venue where your orders were routed for execution, whether the orders were directed or not directed, and if executed, the time of execution.

Under SEC Rule 606(b)(3), broker-dealers are required, upon request of a customer that places not-held orders, to provide specific disclosures regarding routing and execution of such orders for the prior six months.

To view or obtain an electronic copy of Alpaca Securities' Quarterly 606 Reports please visit <https://alpaca.markets/disclosures>

14. Stop Orders

Stop orders may reduce, but not eliminate, your trading risk. A stop market order is an order, placed with your broker, to buy or sell a particular stock at the market price if and when the price reaches a specified level. Stop orders are often used by traders in an effort to limit the amount they might lose. If and when the market reaches whatever price you specify, a stop order becomes an order to execute the desired trade at the best price immediately obtainable.

There can be no guarantee, however, that it will be possible under all market conditions to execute the order at the price specified. In an active, volatile market, the market price may be declining (or rising) so rapidly that there is no opportunity to liquidate your position at the stop price you have designated. Under these circumstances, the broker's only obligation is to execute your order at the best price that is available. Therefore, stop orders may reduce, but not eliminate, your trading risk.

15. Fractional Shares

Alpaca allows for the purchase of fractional shares. You acknowledge and understand that Alpaca rounds all holdings of fractional shares to the ninth decimal place, the value of fractional shares to the nearest cent, and any dividends paid on fractional shares to the lower cent. You understand that you may receive dividends in an amount less than your pro rata ownership would otherwise entitle you to receive, and in certain instances no dividend at all, subject to Alpaca's rounding methodology. You further understand that Alpaca may not accept dollar-based purchases or sales of less than $1.00 and that You will receive proceeds from the sale of any whole or fractional shares rounded to the nearest cent.

You understand that if You enter repeated fractional orders with individual notional values of less than $0.01, your account may be restricted.

To the extent that Alpaca must purchase or sell shares in the market to fulfill any part of your fractional order, the fractional component of that order will be fulfilled at the execution price received for the corresponding whole shares. You understand that Alpaca fulfill your fractional order for national exchange-listed securities (“NMS Securities”) entirely out of Alpaca’s inventory and without purchasing or selling shares in the market (“Inventory Fulfillment”); you will endeavor to price such shares or fractional shares at a price between the National Best Bid and Offer (“NBBO”) at the time of the order for orders made during market hours. Alpaca will endeavor to price such orders between the best bid and offer at the time of the order.

You understand that fractional shares within Your Account (i) are unrecognized, unmarketable, and illiquid outside the Alpaca platform, (ii) are not transferable in-kind, and (iii) may only be liquidated and the proceeds transferred out via a wire transfer. You acknowledge that, subject to applicable requirements, Alpaca may report holdings and transactions in Your Account in terms of either U.S. Dollars, shares, or both.

You agree that your fractional shareholdings shall be treated as a “financial asset” under Article 8 of the Uniform Commercial Code.
